

The Next Storm Is Coming... Be Prepared

There is no question another wind, flood, hail, or rain is in our future. It is always best to do a little preparation now so that you and your family are ready. First, we recommend that you have an agent complete a personal insurance review. There are some key areas of your personal insurance that help you in the event of a storm. These are just a sample of the kinds of questions we might ask you.

- Do you have flood insurance?
- If you live in high wind areas, you may need special wind coverage.
- Are your deductibles in line with your lifestyle?
- Does your homeowner's insurance include extra expense coverage? This would provide funds to rent a second home or a hotel room in the event your home needs repairs.
